Collect case studies but call them stories! Nicola Pearce Smith

A photograph of a woman standing on a stage, giving a presentation. She is positioned in front of a large screen displaying text. The stage has wooden paneling and is illuminated by purple and red lights. The audience seating is visible in the foreground, mostly empty. The image is framed by a blue border, characteristic of a social media post.

What is an Impact Story?

In October 2017, KLS began to formally collect examples of the ways that our literature searches have been used by PHE staff. Our aim was to determine the impact a KLS literature search might have on services, projects, policy, research, publications or population health. A one page A4 template is used by KLS and PHE staff to write up a case study. These are called Impact Stories. They are used to promote the value and impact of our services, and to showcase PHE research and policy.

How can I help to write an Impact Story?

If you have previously requested a literature search which has helped in the production of a publication or the implementation of a service/project, and would like to help KLS complete an Impact Story please contact Nicola Pearce-Smith, Senior Information Scientist.

What Impact Stories are currently available?

The Impact Stories we have completed so far are available to download below.

Impact, waarde van literatuuronderzoek

Excellent session on impact this morning with @pipdivall @eliharriss & Nicola Pearce Smith (@PHE_uk) . Start collecting your #impact stories# #EAHIL2018

The image shows a woman with short brown hair, wearing a light-colored blazer over a patterned top, standing in front of a projection screen. She is looking upwards and slightly to her right. The projection screen displays a slide with four main bullet points:

- a dearth of evidence relating to the effects of secondary exposure to new psychoactive substances was revealed
- Identified gaps in research evidence
- limited evidence around the impact of spending cuts on public health outcomes was demonstrated
- a gap in the evidence base for street begging was highlighted in a review on rough sleeping and street beggars

At the bottom left of the slide, there is small text that reads "47 EAHIL Dublin 2017".

Fascinating presentation by Nicola Pearce-Smith about demonstrating value of literature searches. Remember my own difficulties trying to do this in Leeds & being thrilled when we got an impact story. #EAHIL2018

Such an inspiring talk by Nicola Pearce-Smith on collecting Impact Stories from service users at your institutions. Hoping she will share slides later! In particular, would love to see data collection template she used. #EAHIL2018

Wat is de invloed van een verhaal?

In september 2018 begon de HAN Studiecentra formeel met het verzamelen van voorbeelden van de manier waarop onze literatuur zoekopdrachten zijn gebruikt door HAN-onderzoekers. Ons doel was om het mogelijke effect te achterhalen van een literatuurstudie van de HAN op diensten, projecten, beleid, onderzoek, publicaties of de gezondheid van een bevolkingsgroep. Er is gebruik gemaakt van een sjabloon van één A4'tje om van een case story een case story te maken. Dit noemen wij Impact Stories. Ze worden gebruikt om de waarde en de impact van onze diensten te demonstreren aan het HAN-onderzoek en -beleid.

Hoe kan ik helpen bij het schrijven van een impact verhaal?

Als u eerder ondersteuning hebt gevraagd bij een literatuurstudie die heeft geholpen bij de productie van een publicatie of de uitvoering van een dienst/project en een bijdrage zou willen leveren aan een Impact verhaal, neem dan contact op met Irma van Houts, Senior Informatie Specialist.
